

Ian Hertisan

Born in 1980 to Count Albert Hertisan and his wife Servalan. He has an older brother named Jorge and a younger sister named Marjory. His mother and father were political campaigners and staunch supporters of the North family. Ian's brother became a heroic soldier in the Armed Forces, and his sister joined the Tao.

Family are Notelexian by tradition, but Ian leans towards Naed.

Ian joined the Academy, and his father Albert sponsored many lower born children through their guildic training and built a lodge upon his land for any charters that came out of his sponsorship.

When Ian left the Academy, he joined the Oath at age 18, and built a charter known as the Six Strong Oath with at least one other noble - Dane Silverlight.

The deeds of the Six Strong Oath, known commonly as the Six Oath, are the stuff of legend. They rode out to Rhygharea and battled a battalion of daemonically tainted Lycanthropes that were threatening the smallfolk. It is said that Dane Silverlight somehow managed to unblend several of the bastards.

Ian was active during the Shadow War, and once the Fleet had landed Ian took himself to the Courts to support Dazak North. He joined the Elector's Council and there has continued to be a stalwart supporter of the North family and the Guilds. He is known to be extremely loyal to the Oath still, and remains a senior Guildsperson, often teaching the younger members and telling daring stories.
