

Leman Ataxis

Born in 1975 in The Western March, Leman Ataxis was the fifth last child of an extensive family. His sister Nina would go on to lead this branch of the family, whilst his brothers, Nuno and Maurice would represent them in court. His sister Allison was pegged for military leadership, and Leman was sent to the Crimson Order where he trained as a Battlefield Medic and Skirmisher.

He served through a handful of wars in his early twenties, largely abroad and largely from a medical tent. He served for 5 years until 1997 when he became a temporary tutor in basic medical training at the Academy.

Leman Ataxis is listed as belonging to a number of charters over the years:

The Awakened Beast - dealing with daemonic incursions
The Felakia of The Ferns - a Tao based group in the Ferns

It was during his time with The Unnamed that he began to gather a reputation for low level guild work, nothing flashy. Around the end of the Rhygharean Wars, Leman was not as prolific in the adventuring community, running the family and being a good citizen of the Royal Basin, fighting the good fight and supporting Dazak's efforts throughout the Shadow War, eventually joining the Elector's Council.
