

Olebid Ironmark

Olebid Ironmark is believed to have been a Holy Warrior of Kalarin until he met and began to follow Brother Tiberius until he, too, ascended to Godhood. He is written to have been one of the most gifted military leaders the Royal Basin has ever seen.

His hatred for "The Dark Churches" is well documented, and he fights their rise as hard as he can. At least, until his disappearance in around 300PPW.

He then fell into obscurity until he was discovered in the Unrelenting Kingdom in 2008. Famously, one of the members of the rescuing party was Thaddeus Kael. He was returned to the Royal Basin where he struggled to adjust to the life before him.

After the death of Dieron the Blessed, Olebid resurfaced as the head of the Church of Tiberius and a returned member of a lineage that he clearly founded under the Lionsgolds.

The irrepressible Tiberiusite has made it his business to lead his family in support of Edmund Lionsgold and the current regime of Aristocracy with a strong Anti-Dazak sentiment. He became a close advisor of Edmund Lionsgold and the leader of his forces.

He has not moved on from his antiquated beliefs about the Dusk Churches, and has contacts at the highest level with the commanders of the Azure Order.